

Media Contact:
Wendy Howell, Director of Public Relations & Information
whowell@albanytech.edu
229.430.3816

For Immediate Release
June 21, 2010

Ashley Harry, ATC GOAL Student of the Year, Receives iPad

Albany Technical College Georgia Occupational Award of Leadership (GOAL) student, Ashley Harry, will be presented with an iPad on Tuesday, June 22nd, at 4pm in the Albany Tech Board Room in the Kirkland Building.

Albany Technical College named Medical Assisting student Ashley Harry the GOAL College winner in March. Harry was nominated by Medical Assisting instructor, Cathy Garmon.

The GOAL program recognizes exceptional technical college students from across the state for their academic excellence and personal achievement. The program also spotlights the important role of technical training in our economy.

Harry competed against 10 College GOAL winners representing the technical colleges and USG colleges with a technical division, in the South Georgia region and then again at the state level in May. Although she did not win the state competition, each college winner within the Technical College System of Georgia (TCSG) is being awarded an iPad in honor of his or her achievements.

A native of Preston, GA, Harry is scheduled graduated with a diploma in the medical assisting program this spring. She is currently pursuing her registered nursing license, followed by a Nurse Practitioner License with a specialization in Psychiatry. She is currently employed as a Representative 1 at Inpatient Medicine Specialists at Phoebe Putney Memorial Hospital.

About Albany Technical College

A public postsecondary institution of the Technical System of Georgia, Albany Technical College provides technical education and training support for the evolving workforce needs of Southwest Georgia through traditional and online classroom settings. For more information about Albany Tech, go to www.AlbanyTech.edu or become a fan on Facebook at www.Facebook.com/AlbanyTech